Court of Revision Hear Nine Assessment Appeals

Two Receive Reductions on Land Assessments; Other Seven Assessments Confirmed.

The Court of Revision to hear appeals against 1940 land and property assessments sat on Tuesday evening in the council chamber. Present were Mayor Antrobus, Councillors, Atkinson, Abousafy, Balloch, Kerr, Jenkins, and Trustees Lloyd and Janostak.

Nine appeals were heard, three of them from three local hall committees. The Miners hall, The K.P. hall and the L.O.O.P. hall. All three committees based their appeals on the fact that the buildings were deteriorating and that revenue was insufficient to make proper repairs. Taxes had increased over a period of years and it had now come to the point where it was almost impossible to pay them and that there was the likelihood that the town would find itself with a couple of halls on its hands if tax readjustments were not made.

Only two of the nine appeals met with any success, these were made on land assessments and not property. The other seven assessments were confirmed.

Tax Collections Slow This Year

Collections Lower than Last Year; Combined Town and School Taxes Given as Reason

Enquiry at the town office reveals that tax collections this year are below that of last year. The reason given is that a new system went into effect this year whereby the town collects both its own taxes and that of the school district. Heretofore both bodies collected their own taxes. As a result the taxpayer has to pay the double load at the same time instead of being given a thirty days' respite between the two payments.

The deadline for the 10% tax rebate on current taxes has been set for July 31 and a spurt in tax payments is expected this pay-day, as it will be the last pay before the deadline.

The annual pigeon race for the Dr. R. K. Lillie Cup and championship of the Crows Nest Pass was flown from Waterways, Alta., 505 miles airline, on Wednesday, July 10.

Slightly better weather conditions enabled the birds to do the long flight in an hour's less time than the race for the Bell cup, flown two weeks previously, and from the same race point.

A clean cut win was registered by F. Beddington's bird which was clocked in 35 minutes ahead of its nearest competitor.

Liberated at 7:50 a.m., the birds were clocked in as follows:

1st—F. Beddington, 11-15-20 a.m.

Thursday.

2nd—A. Biegum, 11-50-01 a.m.

Thursday.

Prizes for this race besides the Dr. R. K. Lillie Cup and miniature, were cash prizes given by the Society for first and second birds and three cash pools, two of which were won by F. Beddington and one by A. Biegum.

The Dr. R. K. Lillie Cup has been competed for each year for the past seven years and has been won in the following order:

Council Passes May and June Accounts

Owing to the pressure of urgent and important business during the past two months and the fact that repercussions of world events were felt in the local council chamber which resulted in the resignation of two members and the nomination of two new members to fill the vacancies, accounts were allowed to remain in the background. On Tuesday evening, following the court of revision, councillors doffed their coats and went to work on the following accounts which had accumulated during May and June. All accounts were passed for payment.

Rush For Marriage Licenses in Pass Towns at Week-End

The rush for marriage licenses in Coleman, Blairmore, Hillcrest and Pincher Creek failed to meet the demand at the week-end as young couples rushed to the altar in effort to beat the dead-line of July 14 set by the Dominion government as the last day in which it would recognize the marriage of young men. From July 15 on all men getting married will be classed as single in the eyes of the government and will be treated as such when the time arrives for compulsory military training.

At Coleman Fred Antrobus issued six licenses and had requests for two more. Blairmore and Hillcrest were sold out and a telephone call to Pincher Creek revealed that one license remained, this being quickly snapped up by a Burnside couple. Four marriages took place in Coleman; two at the Catholic church and two at the United church.

INJURED

who is reported to have been seriously injured at Turner Valley when he fell into hot oil. Injuries are said to extend along one leg, the side of the body and arm. He has been a patient in the hospital for the past three weeks but is expected to be allowed home this week. Dan has been signed on by Calgary Stampeders for next hockey season.

Miscellaneous Shower

As the season advances, miscellaneous showers seem to get bigger and better. On Thursday evening in the Catholic hall over 80 persons gathered at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Pauline Kratky, bride-elect. In the middle of the floor stood a beautiful kit-cheneette, the gift of seven relatives of the bride-elect. In addition to this handsome gift the guest-of-honor received many other useful presents from her friends. Whist was enjoyed, prize winners being Mrs. M. Kratky, Mrs. J. Majerciak, and Mrs. P. Fontana. Bingo prizes were won by Mrs. F. Panek, Mrs. K. Maycik, Annie Lowe, Mrs. J. Silana and Mrs. Kovacik. The highlight of the evening's entertainment was the staging of a mock wedding, which produced much comedy and laughter.

C. N. BALL LEAGUE "COCKEYED" SAYS ANGELO

"When is your next league game, Angelo?" was the query put to Ball Manager Angelo Gentile this week. "Oh, I don't know, the way this league is going at the present time it is cockeyed." He informed The Journal that he is endeavoring to get Cranbrook here and is in the local liquor store and has been in Coleman for the past several months, having come to Coleman from Blairmore. The newly-weds intend to take up residence in Coleman next week having secured living quarters in the Italian Block.

CLARK—HARRISON

The marriage took place last week of Miss Sylvia Harrison, daughter of Mrs. Charles Harrison, of Blairmore, and the late Mr. Harrison, to Mr. H. J. Clark of Coleman.

Miss Harrison is a well-known Blairmore girl and was a waitress at the Rex Cafe. Mr. Clark is the local liquor vendor and has been in Coleman for the past several months, having come to Coleman from Blairmore. The newly-weds intend to take up residence in Coleman next week having secured living quarters in the Italian Block.

LONG LIVE THE IRISH

Bright and early Monday morning a renewal subscription was received from Johnny Brennan at Ensign, Alberta. While in Coleman Johnny was an ardent fisherman and could tell stories of how the big ones always got away with the best of them. He is now stationed in the middle of the prairie with nary a fishing stream in sight, so he had to take to the "stubble." He has bought himself a good Irish setter to retrieve the grouse and prairie chicken which may fall to his gun. We still think Johnny would be better satisfied if he could once again get out to the North Forks and cast his line in the fond hope he might catch a big one.

Alberta Red Cross Society Maintain Vigorous Stride

War Workers Urged to Redouble Efforts to Provide Maximum of Service.

Alberta Red Cross volunteer workers are maintaining their vigorous stride in war work. Since February 1st their contributions to date of June 21 have enabled Divisional Headquarters to ship 602 cases of surgical, soldier and refugee supplies overseas.

Included in this grand total were 34 cases containing 11,104 blankets, 129 cases containing 121,308 sunburn dressings, 491 cases containing 127,147 articles of soldier supplies and 17 cases carrying 6,068 articles for refugee relief.

With the war situation developing as it has monotonously than ever, all Red Cross Workers are being urged to continue their efforts to provide a maximum of service to the cause of liberty and freedom, and to those unfortunate refugees suffering extreme physical and mental discomfort through German invasion of their countries.

Many towns and individuals responded to the appeal for blankets, from the district of Alberta the following being mentioned in the weekly report of supplies received: Blairmore, Coleman, Hillcrest, Lethbridge, Pincher Creek, Cayley.

Liberty will not descend to a people; a people must raise itself to liberty; it is a blessing that must be earned before it can be enjoyed.—Colton.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wilson, and family, Mrs. Peter Thompson and son Jim, Jim Wilson, Miss Nitte Gardiner and Rinaldo D'Amico visited at Waterton on Sunday.

Coleman Buys $200 Quota; Bellevue And Blairmore Fall Below Quota

Coleman citizens held high their reputation of being solidly behind any venture that seeks to finance Canada's war effort, to stand out Hitlerites. On Monday evening they flocked to the Palace theatre, which in conjunction with other theatres from coast to coast, was thrown open to the public, admission being the purchase of two 25¢ war savings stamps, retained by the purchaser. Each of Cole's Pass theatres was given $200 worth of savings stamps. Coleman easily absorbed its quota. Wm. Cole, proprietor of the theatre, had $26 worth of stamp left over at 8:30 p.m. when the show was scheduled to start. He appealed to the patrons to buy them. In less than three minutes the stamps were sold and many persons were seen putting money back into their pockets, having brought it forth to buy part of the available stamps. Mr. Cole could easily have sold $100 worth more stamps.

$180 at Blairmore

At Blairmore there was a good attendance at the theatre, but only $180 worth of stamps were purchased and this included an appeal from the floor of the theatre by Mr. Cole, who came down from Coleman to see how the stamp sale had gone over at this theatre.

Bellevue lagged badly, only $130 being sold. No attempt was made however, from the floor to sell additional stamps.

The films shown at the theatres were donated, but an expenditure of better than $300 was borne by Mr. and Mrs. Cole. Wages and overhead in addition to miscellaneous expenditures were met by them. In addition they purchased practically all of the broken books of stamps rather than turn them back into the post-office. They are to be heartily congratulated on this patriotic gesture.

Canada's Military Organization To Be Largest In History

Ottawa—Canada's military organization is due for the largest expansion in its history. The task of training hundreds of thousands of men, volunteers and draftees, has been entrusted to it.

This means that all the units of the non-permanent active militia, now authorized to recruit to full war strength, even if they are not mobilized into the Canadian Active Service Force, will have a number of different battalions each.

Some units have already been authorized to recruit second battalions. Before the mobilization plan is in operation many months the more active units will probably have third and fourth battalions as well and as time goes on some may have many more.

Thus units which in peacetime consisted of a few hundred officers and men and whose war strength is under 1,000 will grow into the proportions ultimately, perhaps, of a division.

All across Canada the response to the appeal for men as volunteers sent out by Defence Minister J. L. Richardson and Hon. C. G. Power, air minister, has been generous.

Immediate requirements, according to the two war ministers, are 40,000 men for the Canadian Active Service Force full time soldiers ready to serve anywhere, and roughly 75,000 men for the militia, part-time soldiers, ready to undergo training while carrying on their civilian occupations and to serve anywhere in Canada in case of need.

But the government's military program contemplates teaching every able-bodied man between the ages of 18 and 45 the rudiments of soldiering, at least. Well over 2,000,000 men fall within those age limits. Many, of course, are not physically fit and many of those who are are already in the army or working at some essential employment from which they cannot be spared.

Even if half of the 2,000,000 potential soldiers in that class are to get training, a big expansion in Canadian training facilities and military activity all across the country is involved.

The 40,000 men now being enrolled for the C.A.S.F. will bring that force up to about 150,000. Some of these will go into reinforcement depots to prepare to replace men who for one reason or another including battle casualties may be struck off the strength of the units now serving in the United Kingdom, at other overseas stations or on the Canadian coasts. Others are needed to bring recently mobilized units up to strength.

The men who enter the non-permanent militia will receive training in the elementary things of warfare, marching and drilling, shooting, bayonet practice and something on the handling of other arms and pieces of equipment.

Those who volunteer now and are enrolled in militia units will start by turning up at their unit headquarters two nights a week for drill and go to camp in August for 15 to 20 days. Enlarged camp accommodation is being arranged for the first of August and the intention is to keep that accommodation filled with militiamen and keep the training staff assigned to the camps busy until the snow flies.

As one batch leaves the camp another will go in. When the supply of volunteers runs out, whether it is at the end of August or the end of September the men from the first draft will be ready to move in.

Thus the time at which the draft is to be made and the number to be called on it depends mainly on the extent to which volunteers are recruited and they are now being recruited at a rapid rate.

Shanghai Incident

Expect Matter Can Be Settled Between Jan. 1 And 15, Authorities Tokyo, Yesterdye Sunday—A foreign office spokesman, said he expected the Shanghai incident in which United States marines arrested 15 Japanese gendarmes would be settled between Japanese and American authorities in Shanghai.

The commander of the gendarmes demanded an apology from Col. Dewitt Peck, United States Marine commander, for alleged maltreatment of the prisoners.

Rear-Admiral Morii Takeda, commander of the Japanese naval garrison in Shanghai, told newsmen that "the violence and insults inflicted on the Japanese gendarmes were barbarous acts beyond description."

Col. Dewitt Peck, the marine garrison commander, has branded the Japanese charges as "lies."

Donations For War

London—First day donations totaled £40,000 (currently about $170,000) in a drive in Finsbury with which to buy bombers to aid Britain's war effort, Reuters news agency reported from Suva.

No Food Shortage

People In Britain Will Have Plenty To Eat This Winter

London—Britain will continue to eat, despite German efforts to blockade her with submarines and bombers. C. S. Hudson, minister of agriculture, told the commons:

"We shall have maintained our supply and can settle and cheap supplies," he said, "and we have both a reserve of meat on the hoof and a large additional store of cereals in stacks and barns for whatever emergency arises this winter."

Mr. Hudson said the nation was facing a crisis immeasurably more serious than in 1914. Agriculture, he added, must increase food production in the next year to prevent millions from going hungry.

Wheat Delivery Increase

Ottawa—Deliveries of wheat to country elevators in the three prairie provinces from August, 1939, to May, 1940, totalled 385,110,879 bushels, according to information tabulated in commons by Trade Minister MacKinnon. This compared with 281,255,243 bushels in the entire 1938-39 crop year, and 118,326,431 in the previous crop year, the return stated.

United Kingdom Is Taking Measures To Curb Defeatist Talk

London—The government hopes to enrol every man, woman and child in the United Kingdom in a "column of silent soldiers" pledged to kill rumors and defeatist talk.

They will be asked to fight these enemies:

1. Rumors completely false or partly true which tend to cause confusion in civilians' minds.

2. Gossip which puts in circulation military information which might reach the enemy.

3. Defeatist talk regarding the war effort.

A suggested slogan is "Sew your lips with khaki cotton lest you say what's best forgotten."

"Chatterbox" will be placed in hotel clubs and homes. People who circulate rumors or talk indirectly will be invited to drop in a contribution for charity.

Every means of modern publicity—newspaper, magazine, advertising posters, radio talks and dramas—will be used to aid the "silent columnists."

It is pointed out that rumors and depressing gossip often are inspired by the enemy. The Nazi propaganda into a deadly weapon.

The revelation that a German stormtrooper had been employed on the translation staff of the British Broadcasting Corporation prior to his dismissal recently was given from page prominence in most London papers.

The stormtrooper is said to be still at liberty in London.

The case was revealed in the commons when Philip Noel Baker, Labour, claimed that Nazi agents had organized a plot throughout England to spread defeatist talk. He gave no details, merely claiming that one of the 20 German translators employed by the BBC had been found to be a stormtrooper and had been dismissed.

The BBC had been found to be a fathers await passports for their children so that they can send them to Canada for the duration of the war. No one between the ages of 16 and 60

End Of French Republic

Outlines New System Under German Domination

Berne, Switzerland.—Defeated France turned back to the old provincial system of a bygone day, with an authoritarian base and a seat of government in the palace of kings in German-occupied Versailles.

"Capitalism" and "Socialism" are things of the past," said Marshal Petain, 84-year-old head of state by decree, in a broadcast address from Vichy head over France and in neighboring countries. "It is now necessary to fight against all internationalism."

Then he outlined France's new system under German domination, a strange medley of the political past and the political present.

After he had spoken the radio announced that effective to-day Petain would succeed President Albert Lebrun as head of the French state and would become chief of the executive department of the government, a president and prime minister in one.

He will have full legislative power, until a new chamber is formed and in case of serious internal or external crises he is empowered to legislate without consulting the chamber at all.

Thus the marshal said, is what is to supplement the dead French republic.

The men who enter the non-permanent militia will receive training in the elementary things of warfare, marching and drilling, shooting, bayonet practice and something on the handling of other arms and pieces of equipment.

Those who volunteer now and are enrolled in militia units will start by turning up at their unit headquarters two nights a week for drill and go to camp in August for 15 to 20 days.

Political Union

Harvard University Professor Thinks Britain And U.S. Should Join Forces

Cambridge, Mass.—Political union of the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations was advocated by Professor H. Duncan Hall, of the Harvard University summer school, as "the only way of escape left to the United States from the prison walls closing in upon her."

Declaring "it is a question of closer political relations with the whole British Commonwealth now or perhaps later with the remnants—those of the dominions that may be left battling along the fringes," Hall said in an address:

"Political union of America and the British Commonwealth would open up a world wide common citizenship... It would pool not only citizenship but resources and make a solid block on which peaceable might be erected. By this means alone could America secure the naval haves in all parts of the world vital to her exercise of sea power."

Daily War Cost Heavy

British People Warned That Taxes May Be Further Increased

London—The nation was told of the terrific cost of fighting the Nazis—$19,500,000 ($42,275,000) daily—and prepared to give more of its money to the cause and to receive further rationing of its food supplies.

Sir Kingsley Wood gravely presented the cold figures of cost to the House of Commons, asking a vote of credit for £1,000,000,000, that additional taxes might be imposed on top of the already high levies. Of the daily cost, Sir Kingsley said, £16,500,000 goes directly to the army, navy and air force.

The house granted the requested vote of credit. The last such grant was £1,000,000,000 in March, of which £675,000,000 has been spent.

Policy To Be Adopted In Reference To National Registration

Ottawa—All single men will be working out a designation of essential industries, a list of which would be provided for each judge. The national registration in late August, judge would also be provided with an Hon. J. G. Gardner announced in the outline of principles to be followed. House of Commons.

To prove "undue, improper press sure" men will be classified for either immediate or postponed training by a district judge. Married men and men in essential industries will be placed on the postponed list.

"There will be no exemptions except a few limited by law, and a person will always be subject to call," said Mr. Gardner, minister-designate of national war services.

Those who marry on or after July 15 will be considered as unmarried. "We have chosen the judges so that the people of Canada will be assured that an independent tribunal has dealt with individual cases and has classified the man as either immediate or postponed.

"In this way, no undue improper pressure will be brought by any person to have a man's name placed on the postponed list," he said.

The minister's words formed the most detailed analysis of the government's registration and mobilization plans given out so far.

He said the question of when a man was called would depend on whether his name was on the immediate or postponed list.

These cards properly classified, will then go with the report of the local judge to the central judge. The central judge will classify them in age groups, by years, and so will know how many young men there are in each province from 21 years up immediately available for military training. He would also know the number by ages on the postponed list.

"When we are notified by the military authorities that a certain number of men are required—and it must be remembered that these men are required for military service—then the central judge will go to his record and call up the requisite number from the 21-year-old class in the immediate list, and will go on from year to year until the required number has been called up," said the minister.

London Paper Thinks They Would Inspire British People

London—The Daily Express in an editorial urged a big parade be held of Empire troops now in Britain.

Explaining that many of them find nothing to do all day and are tired of strolling in London, the paper said:

"Let us ask them to inspire the British people by marching through the streets not only of London but the big provincial cities."

De Valera Is Neutral

Hope Is Abandoned For Reaching Any Agreement

London—The British government has practically abandoned hope of bringing Northern Ireland and Eire into agreement for defence of the island, it was reported.

Prime Minister de Valera's uncompromising determination to maintain neutrality for Eire has made it impossible for the British government to reach any agreement with him. On the other hand Viscount Craigavon's equal determination to preserve the constitutional position of Northern Ireland has proved to be an insurmountable barrier to negotiations.

Mr. de Valera not only has declared for neutrality but also has appealed for a united Ireland to defend the Irish neutrality. That would mean Northern Ireland abandoning belligerency, something Lord Craigavon's government will not do.

No Limitation Placed By Britain On The Purchase Of Planes

London—Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production, said in the house of lords that "the sky is the limit" in the purchase of aircraft from the United States.

"Our program is perfectly simple," he said. "It is to buy everything we can possibly get."

Lord Beaverbrook added that "in pursuit of that program, we have no explanation of why offers of last $10,000,000 a day every day October to erect factories and aircraft production were turned down," he added.

He said Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal industrialist, who heads the British Purchasing Commission, had been "overworked and understaffed."

Lord Beaverbrook emphasized the production capacity of Canada's industry and expressed surprise at what he said was Britain's slowness in placing orders in North America. The peer, who was in the United States when the war broke out, paid tribute to the work of Mr. Purvis but contended his work was hampered by not having complete liberty of action.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

LAST WEEK the Canadian people were told over the radio by Hon. J. L. Ralston and Hon. C. G. Power that Canada's man power is to be mobilized and trained for war. You can offer your services voluntarily, but if you don't, and your age is between 18 and 45 years, then you are liable to be compelled to serve. That is the gist of the talk.

THOUGH Canada's ports are in no immediate danger, yet it is not wise to wait until the Hun is at the gates. Every man can be given an elementary training in the use of arms in a few weeks, and for national defence this will be done. Of course, enlistment in the active service force will be encouraged, as well as enrolment in the non-permanent active militia. But all Canadian citizens will be called on to share in defence measures, for "the courage of our people is all that stands between freedom and slavery," stated Mr. Power.

EQUALITY of service will be the rule, no favoritism will be shown to the rich over the poor. Every man must assume the full duties of citizenship, and the government will register all man power. Canadians will cheerfully accept the duties that must be fulfilled if we are to win the war. Business may have to suffer, inconveniences may be caused, but what are these compared to the uncertainty of life and death which hangs over the people of the British Isles.

TRIP over the Columbia Icefields Highway connecting Banff with Jasper, via Lake Louise, is an experience of a lifetime. Pictures and newspaper articles have not exaggerated in their descriptions one little bit the magnificent scenic attractions which unfold themselves as the traveller passes along. Canada has a national asset in the Rocky Mountains which nobody can exploit or take away, and the new highway should as the years pass prove an ever increasing attraction to the tourist from all over the American continent, and further afield. The Canadian Pacific, with its magnificent hotels at Banff and Lake Louise, and the Canadian National with its beautiful Jasper Park Lodge and bungalows, play a great part in attracting people to the Rockies, and even the briefest stay at any of these places makes one feel he is in an enchanted land.

SONG that has leapt into popularity recently and is heard on radio, Wurlitzers in restaurants, on bands at country fairs, and is whistled by the boys on the streets, is "There'll Always Be An England." It has an appeal which stirs the emotions and re-awakens a love of country, and of the Empire, for the name England stands as a symbol of the entire British Commonwealth of Nations. Wars usually produce stirring martial songs which give an outlet for the feelings of the people. Back in South African war days there was "The Absent Minded Beggar" in the Great War of 1914-18 "Tipperary" and "The Rose of No Man's Land" held the spotlight of popularity, while another that later became very popular was "Land of Hope and Glory." These songs carry both pleasant and poignant memories.

IN the latest war song, the words:
There'll always be an England,
And England shall be free,
If England means as much to you,
As England means to me!

reminds us that as we cherish freedom and democratic ideals, we must realize that to retain these ideals heavy responsibilities must be assumed. We have taken for granted the freedom we possess, perhaps relying too much on a few to safeguard those democratic principles which are in striking contrast to the regimented policies of dictator countries. All who heard Winston Churchill last Sunday were impressed with the fact that courage and fortitude are the assets of a free people which will eventually win the war, long though the struggle may be. As the song says:

Freedom remains, these are the chains,
Nothing can break.....

COURAGE and fortitude are the bulwarks of a democratic people against servile submission to dictators. Britain is fighting alone, not for herself, as Winston Churchill pointed out, but for those nations which though subdued by intrigue and treachery, may yet rise again to enjoy the liberties which have been crushed by the iron heel of Nazi-ism. And in the tight little island of Great Britain men, women, and children will bear with fortitude the trials which undoubtedly will come with increasing violence in a supreme effort by Germany to demoralize them. But they will stand firm, with a leader like Churchill at their head. It is our part to give all we can in men, money and resources if we too, are to remain free.

Edwin Barrett
Sentenced to Six Months

Found Guilty of Breaking And Entering, And Supplying Liquor to Minors

Appearing before Magistrate Gresham on Wednesday charged on two counts, Edwin Barrett, 24 years, of East Coleman, was sentenced to serve three months on each count in the Lethbridge jail, sentences to run consecutively.

The charges, laid by the R.C.M.P., were on breaking and entering the residence of John Guerin, of East Coleman, and giving liquor to minors. Barrett pleaded not guilty but the evidence presented by the police convinced the magistrate of his guilt and the above sentences were imposed.

He was deported from the States last Fall and came to Coleman last February. He has been in the employ of a lumberman and had been working in the woods here.

DUCKLINGS GO ASTRAY

Six wild mallard ducklings apparently got lost Friday morning and, after wandering around town for a spell, waddled into the Corner Service Station and squatted down in a cool spot. Mayor F. E. Lenhart, owner of the service station had the little strays cared for and they were later taken to a nearby slough and released.

Mayor Lenhart says the ducklings were a week ahead of schedule to get that "extra service" being advertised this week by Standard products.—Bonners Ferry Herald.

Sightless Fish

Are Found In Waters Of Caverns Over Wide Areas

When a deep artesian well was brought in recently in Southern California's sub-sea-level Coachella Valley, up with the flowing water came thousands of tiny, fresh water fish without even a trace of rudimentary eyes. Ichthyologists identified them as a species previously known to natural science, a species allied to the sightless fish of Mammoth Cave, in Kentucky, and found in the waters of several other great caverns in widely-separated parts of the earth.

Their discovery in the artesian well bored to a depth of 1,400 feet indicates the existence of a large river system lake under the Coachella Valley where the fish have survived through the thousands of years it has taken for adaptation to environment to transform them into an eyeless species. Editors From All Parts Of Canada Represented At Calgary Meeting

More than 200 newspaper editors and owners from all parts of Canada, representing all shades of editorial opinion and almost every type of Canadian, gathered in Calgary for the two-day convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association. The agenda included reports, discussions, addresses and entertainment. H. T. Hallwell of Coleman, Alta., president of the association, presided at all sessions.

Part of the weeklies in promoting the spirit of patriotism and support of the government in these trying times was pointed out by Mr. Hallwell in his report. "The city or metropolitan dailies provide the news service covering world events, but when it comes to the intimate touch in arousing people's interests, the editor of the weekly editor can and does accomplish much. We must at all times seek to improve our services to our readers so that the weekly newspaper is a vital force in the community," he said.

Weekly newspapers were giving free publicity to the War Savings Certificates campaign and other worthy causes, he said.

The meeting closed officially with a banquet and dance at which awards and trophies were presented. Guest speaker was W. Frank Prendergast, assistant to the president of Imperial Oil, Ltd., Toronto.

I Read --- And Write --- For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

F. W. Cutherson Smith, engineer, painter, poet, lecturer, attended a party of literary people several years before World War No. 1. He had attired himself to look like the Kaiser, being clad in white and much of his uniform, and wearing a brass helmet. He put medals and crosses on many of the guests, and amused them by saying, "I am a man of peace." A man present, with a picture of Morocco, I want a piece of Morocco. I don't own the whole of Africa."

William Lyons Phelps, in his recollection of his childhood with his father, said that to set about the history of literary men: "Most professed pessimists are happy men; most professed humorists are not; most professed optimists are not; while composing. A man who called on him in a newspaper office while he was hurriedly writing a manuscript for an impudent printer was told that he was impudent. He was asked if he was a man of peace. He was laughing and crying. His friend was sympathetic and wished to know the cause of his grief. "Oh, nothing. He always calls me a pessimist." At this point the boy came out of the room with the fresh copy. The manuscript was doubtfully wet with ink and tears. His friend glanced at it, and said, "Nothing can cure a man of baseness, but a second wife will sometimes help."

You have read, of course, of F. W. Cutherson Smith, the boss of the pneumatic machine which controlled and corrupted Kansas City, and who was sent to prison for 15 months for evading Federal income taxes. F. W. Cutherson Smith, a man released from prison under strict rules of probation. Thus: he must remain out of politics; he must not enter his old office. After 13 years he will be the most eligible bachelor in Kansas City. He must have neither direct nor indirect political participation; he must not gamble. He may not leave the limits of Kansas City without written permission from the judge who has imprisoned him.

Navajo land is populated by 48,000 men, women and children, only 10% of whom understand English. The Navajos are—or have been—wholly without any written language, being essentially oral-minded. Now they are to be taught and entertained by radio. At Window Rock, Arizona, has been erected a broadcasting station, from which will be broadcast programs in Navajo.

These broadcasts will be largely educational, in relation to the practice of agriculture, land management and stock handling. Among objects of particular interest will be domestic, such as the arts and crafts, resource conservation, and tribal government.

In the past the rank and file of the tribe have been difficult to reach by would-be teachers.

Along The Roof Of The Continent

It is a far cry from the days when Fred Brewster, noted mountain climber, hiked through the Columbia Icefield (left) as

From Jasper Park Lodge the highway leads to the foot of Athabasca Glacier (right), where is located the new Columbia Icefield campground, by far the largest.

Kitchens and other glaciars all welded into one inseparable mass,

JOB'S REPENTANCE AND RESTORATION

Golden text: "The Lord turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends." Job 42:12.

Lesson: Job 42:1-13.

Devotional reading: II Corinthians 12:2-10.

Explanations and Comments

Job's Repentance, Job 42:1-6.

Then Job answered Jehovah and said,

I know that thou canst do all things,

And no purpose of thine can be resisted.

In the chapter that precedes, 40 and 41, the account of the hippopotamus and the crocodile, God had been giving Job convincing evidences of his power, power and love. Job now humbly acknowledges that he has learned his lesson: he is ready to trust where he does not understand.

Who is this that hideth counsel without knowledge? Job 42:13.

Why did I utter what I did not understand, things so wonderful for me to know?

Job's Restoration, Job 42:7-15.

These words form the epilogue to the drama of Job. Jehovah's estimate of the three friends is given:

"My wrath is kindled against you, but it is not my servant Job."

The friends are bidden to offer a burnt-offering for themselves before Jehovah.

Job is bidden to offer a sacrifice for his wife, for him, for his sons and daughters.

For him, for his wife, I do not wish you after your folly," said Job.

Job is told not to be angry with his wife, for him, for his sons and daughters.

The Park Lane Mystery

One night it happened that he found himself walking along the street at the back of Fotheringay Mansions and, looking up, noticed a bright light burning behind the green blind in an upper room. Mr. Ingle's apartment was very easily located, and with a few sharp parapet to identify the height; the lower room where the light showed was four windows from the fireescape.

Elk was with him, and to that unenthusiastic man he confided his intentions.

"He'll start to squeal about police persecution," suggested Elk.

Undeterred, Jim went up in the elevator, though the man in charge discouraged him.

"I don't think Mr. Jackson is at home," he said. (This was the name by which Ingle was known). "A gentleman called an hour ago and knocked twice but could get no answer."

"Maybe I can knock louder," suggested Jim.

But ring and knock as he did, he had no answer. Yet, as he listened at the letter-box aperture, to make certain that the bell was ringing, he could have sworn he heard a stealthy footstep inside. Why was he hiding?

There was, of course, the possibility that the man was engaged in some new piece of roguery. But from his experience of swindlers, Jim Carlton knew that they were never furtive when they were planning a con.

The landing was deserted, and he could walk without attracting to himself the suspicion of the man.

Again he stopped and listened, and now he heard a sound which puzzled him—a whirring like the rapid turning of a ratchet. He had heard that noise before somewhere, and yet he could not locate or diagnose the sound. It came very faintly as through a closed door. . . .

He saw the ascending light of the elevator and walked to the gate. The car passed to the next floor to discharge its passenger, and then came down to his level.

"Couldn't make him hear, I suppose, sir?" asked the elevator man, with the satisfaction of one whose dire prophecy has been realized. "He won't see anybody these days. Why, able to get either over or beneath it.

"Maybe it's to keep it airtight," suggested Elk, "or to trip up the feliers who are not burnt to death. Going up?"

Jim nodded, and Inspector Elk followed him from landing to landing until they came level with the floor on which Mr. Ingle's flat was situated. Without a word Jim Carlton swung himself over the rail and, balancing precariously upon the narrow ledge of stone, felt forward and gripped the nearest window sill. Progress in front of the windows was an easy matter to one with his nerve, it was in the intervening spaces, where he had to depend for his life upon a fine sense of balance, that the danger lay. Elk watched him anxiously as he moved nearer and nearer to the window, flattening himself against the wall and edging forward inch by inch; in this perilous fashion he came sliding to the window from behind which came the ceaseless rattle of the projector.

The moment he reached his objective Jim knew that his effort had been in vain. Behind blind and window he could see the small projector at work, was dazzled by the flicker of the light, and Arthur Ingles showed clearly in the glow thrown back from the invisible screen. He was turning the handle, his eyes staring at the picture which he was projecting, and the first thing the detective noticed was that Mr. Ingle was in need of a barber, for his face was covered with a ragged white stubble and his gray hair was long and unkempt.

But what was the picture he was viewing so intently? Jim screamed his head round, but on the left-hand side of the window the blind ran flush with the sash. There was nothing to do but to make his way back and noiselessly he edged toward the ladder.

He had not gone more than half-way before he had a shock. He felt a stone yield beneath his feet, the edge broke off and fell into the courtyard below. It might be one rotten piece, he argued, but stepped more gingerly. If the parapet gave under his weight while he was traversing a wall space nothing could save him from death; but he did not allow his mind to dwell upon this aspect of the adventure.

"What do you mean by 'something unusual'?"

The man scratched his head.

"I don't know exactly. About four days ago a man came here with a long black box—the sort of thing that they use for carrying films—Films!"

Now Jim Carlton understood. This was the sound he had heard; the whir of a cinematograph projector!

"He took it up and left it. I asked him if Mr. Jackson was taking on film work, but he said nothing—the man who brought it, I mean. Of course, if I knew for certain that he had any celluloid stored on the premises, I'd have to report it. Those things are not allowed in the building—. . . ."

Jim listened without hearing. He was dumfounded by the discovery. Every man has his secret weakness, but though he had credited Mr. Arthur Ingle with many peculiarities, he had never suspected him of a passion for the screen.

Elk was waiting outside, the stub of a cigar between his teeth, a large, unfurled umbrella in his hand, and in a few words Jim told him what he had learned.

"Pitchees!" said Elk, shaking his head. "Never thought he would lower himself to that! Queer thing how these crooks sort of run to weakness on one way or the other. I knew a man, the cleverest safebreaker in Europe, who'd risk a lagging to get a game of ping-pong! There was another fellow named Moses who had the finest long-film business in England—"

"Let us go around and look at the back of the house again," Jim interrupted the reminiscences ruthlessly.

The bright light was showing again, clear through the dark green blinds, but even as he looked it was extinguished, but when his eyes became accustomed to the darkness he could see the reflected glow of another light. It was in this room then that Mr. Ingle was engaged in his new hobby.

Jim looked naturally at the fire-escape. There was a wall to be scaled or, easier perhaps, a door into the courtyard of the building might be opened without the key. But he had no need to force it. It was unlocked and gave easy entry to a stone-paved yard, whence a flight of iron bars led up to the roof. An iron bar was fastened across the rails at the bottom, for what purpose was not clear, since it was possibly not arousing the inmates and blankets at the foot of the bed. Yet only on the wireless. I shall have

Red Cross Hospital Visitors' Committee Operates in Britain

One of the services provided overseas by the Canadian Red Cross Society for the comfort of Canadian troops is the Hospital Visitors' Committee. Members of this committee, mostly Canadian women now resident in England, are assigned to hospitals throughout the Old Country to look after the comfort of every Canadian soldier admitted. The Hospital Visitor reports on his needs to the Soldiers' Comforts Committee of the Canadian Red Cross in London and a parcel is despatched immediately. If the patient is unable to do so himself, the Visitor writes to his relatives in Canada, keeping them informed of his progress.

The Overseas Advisory Committee of the society has accepted the generous offer of a lovely Wrenbury home for ten convalescent officers. The donor, Mrs. Bond, will bear the cost of operation, estimated at £3,000.

Zig-Zag Clocks

Used On Ship To Help Dodge Enemy

British merchant ships all carry "zig-zag" clocks to help them avoid enemy U-boats, it was explained at a Ministry of Shipping inquiry by David Nicholl, marine superintendent of the Union Castle Line.

Nicholl said the instrument, which worked like an alarm clock, was set to ring at regular intervals, and the bell warned the helmsman steering a zig-zag course that it was time to change course.

The inquiry was into the loss of the 7,016-ton motor schooner Rothesay Castle which struck a reef off the west coast of Scotland in January and broke her back.

Regulations Broadened

War Certificates May Now Be Bought By Certain Groups

In response to requests by a number of patriotic groups in Canada, the war savings committee of the Bank of Canada announced a broadening of regulations covering issue of war savings certificates whereby the certificates will be issued to certain specific groups wishing to act in concert. Previously certificates have been issued only to individuals.

Incorporated or unincorporated bodies organized for the purpose of carrying on objects of national, municipal, patriotic, religious, educational, charitable, professional, social or sporting activities "without pecuniary gain to their members," will be allowed to purchase not more than $500 worth of certificates.

Nazi Prisoners Show Their Cowardice When Subjected To Bombs

True, and perhaps instructive, a traveler in a convoy carrying evacuated soldiers to a British port was asked how he stood the constant aerial bombardment to which the ships were subjected. "It would have been all right," he said, "if it hadn't been for the German prisoners. We had to take forcible steps to silence them, or they would have quite unrolled a Victorian footstool, other attractive items."
